Project Name: Cargo Movement Operations System (CMOS) Life Cycle Sustainment

Program Description: Air Force, Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and National Security Agency transportation activities use CMOS to automate and streamline base level cargo movement processes and support rapid movement of joint military capability anywhere in the world under any conditions. CMOS incorporates handheld Automatic Identification Technology (AIT) devices to in-check and consolidate freight on the warehouse floor. The electronic reporting of cargo movement makes CMOS a vital component of the logistics communities' effort to provide in-transit asset visibility.

Objective: CMOS Operations, Maintenance, and Sustainment Support

Scope: All tasks necessary to provide Level III Help Desk support 24/7, system Deficiency Report (DR) analysis and reporting, Maintenance Releases (Routine, Priority, and Emergency), and Development of Technical, Functional, and/or Financial Improvement and Audit Readiness (FIAR) Change Requests

Acquisition Approach: 8(a) Competitive, 8(a) STARS II GWAC

Period of Performance: July 2017 – July 2022 (One year base period plus four 1-year option periods)

Anticipated RFP Release Date: 2Q FY17

Project Name: Aviation Resource Management System (ARMS)

Program Description: ARMS is the Air Force authoritative system for frontline aviators and parachutists, to record and calculate aircrew training information such as due dates, frequency, and accomplishments for all training events. ARMS provides Air Force Instructions (AFI)-mandated aviation qualifications and training requirements, safety of flight currency requirements, go/no-go qualifications, individual flying hour tracking, aircrew experience level tracking, aeronautical order management and career flying gates and incentive pay tracking. The Air Force uses this information to enhance the safety-of-flight operations and determine whom to select for specific missions.

Objective: Software development and system sustainment support

Scope: The contractor shall aid in the designing, development and packaging of software changes in order to maintain and sustain the existing ARMS system as well as update and modularize ARMS to provide new capabilities to the warfighter. The contractor shall analyze (as applicable) deficiencies, problem reports, use cases, requirements and design solutions, modernize the software, incorporate PMO approved capability enhancements, and sustain the fielded ARMS code.

334-416-2653; DSN: 596-2653

Project Name: NexGen IT

Program Description: NexGen IT is an IT-hosted capability that enables future Civil Engineer IT capabilities. This product is comprised of a NexGen IT application consisting of integrated modules with embedded/configurable best business practices and capabilities in Real Estate, Energy, Computerized Maintenance Management System (CMMS), Project Management, and Space Management. Real Estate Management is the process of managing space and transactions at an installation and consists of four sub-processes: Manage Transactions, Manage Space Occupancy, Manage Contracts, Conduct Move Planning and Management. This function is a key driver in the execution of plans from Project Management, as well as a provider of feedback into the development of future plans.

Objective: Support data conversion from legacy systems to NexGen IT, support deployment of the system to 184 USAF installations and sustainment support services of the NexGen IT application

Scope: Provide data conversion support, deployment of system to USAF installations and sustainment services. NexGen IT is in the process of being deployed to 184 Air Force installations. This effort involves conversion of data from the legacy systems (ACES/IWIMS) into NexGen IT. The data readiness and conversion process for each installation starts 6 months prior to actual deployment of the system to the installation. It also involves providing data conversion reports on a weekly basis based on this 6 month schedule for each installation. These tasks occur for 1-2 installations "going live" on a weekly basis. The schedule is also broken into 5 distinct sets of installations called "Waves." This deployment started in June 2016 and is expected to take up to 3 years to complete. Sustainment services will include baseline change requests for enhancing current capabilities, compliance activities (CFO, RPIM, Blue Book, FISCAM), determining gap analysis for future capabilities, database management and Help Desk level II and III support. Certified IBM TRIRIGA expertise is required.

Acquisition Approach: TBD

Period of Performance: August 2017 – August 2020 (One year base period plus four 6-months option periods)

Anticipated RFP Release Date: 3Q FY17

Estimated Dollar Value: $35M – $45M
